2	Repair damaged test leads (CT2_2-17).
	Identify potential abnormal operating conditions that may occur during performance of this CT, and know the appropriate actions to take in response to them.
	Utilize the appropriate personal protective equipment according to relevant company procedures.
	Where necessary, make proper notifications to operations and to the local One-Call organization before working around the structure.
	Identify the test lead damage by performing a visual inspection of the aboveground wire and components.
	Determine whether the test lead damage can be repaired. If the damage can be repaired, repair the test lead.

	If the test lead cannot be repaired, connect a replacement to the structure using exothermic or non-exothermic welding. Excavation may be necessary if a structure appurtenance is not available.
	Verify that the test lead functions properly by obtaining a structure-to-soil potential and/or continuity measurement.
	If the reading requires further evaluation, seek assistance from appropriate personnel for additional investigative and corrective actions before documentation.
	Where necessary, make proper notifications to operations that work has been completed.
	Complete appropriate documentation as required by operator's procedures.
